

Employment

RESPONSIBILITIES: Developing an effective research, instructional, and outreach program targeting domestic Energy Economics and Policy. Emphasis will be on the interface of agricultural and environmental/natural resource activities and diverse forms of energy production, distribution, and use—biofuels (e.g., ethanol, biodiesel), alternative/renewable sources of energy (e.g., wind, solar), and fossil fuels. Successful candidate will also teach undergraduate and graduate courses in energy economics and policy as well as applied economics and develop an outreach program in energy economics and policy. Directing master's and PhD students is expected. Candidate is expected to develop and implement a nationally-recognized, externally-funded research and outreach program dealing with issues of energy production, distribution, and use.

QUALIFICATIONS: PhD in either Agricultural Economics with an emphasis in energy economics and policy or in a closely related discipline by time of appointment or date of hire. Skills in quantitative methods and economic modeling, and the ability to teach and provide leadership to graduate and undergraduate students are required. Applicants must demonstrate a potential for scholarly productivity and grantsmanship. Preference will be given to candidates who have demonstrated the ability to work cooperatively on interdisciplinary research teams, have research grant support, and have published in peer-reviewed journals.

APPLICATION: Applicants must have three letters of reference, a letter of application, curriculum vitae, official transcripts, and statements of research interests, teaching, and outreach philosophies and
