

Employment

will serve as an advisor and research supervisor for MS, Master of Agribusiness, and PhD students, in addition to advising undergraduate students. The selected individual is expected to develop a research program related to agribusiness/marketing. Success in teaching, the development of a successful applied research program, including externally funded projects, and publication in refereed journals are necessary to earn tenure and promotion.

A PhD in agricultural economics, applied economics, economics, business administration or related discipline is required. Candidates should have completed their doctorates by August 2008. Interest in working with business firms and agricultural industries, and training in marketing logistics, operations research or supply chain management markets, are desirable. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in research, teaching, and service. Excellent communication skills, both written and oral, are necessary.

Applicants are requested to send a letter of intent, vita (including a list of publications), a statement of teaching and research goals, sample publications (maximum of three), any evidence of teaching experience, official transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to: Dr. Jaime Malaga, Search Committee Chair; Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics; Texas Tech University; Box 42132; Lubbock, TX 79409-2132. Screening of applicants will begin April 1st, 2008 and continue until a suitable candidate is found. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Women and members of other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Texas Tech University is sensitive to the needs of dual career couples. Texas Tech University is an Equal Employment Opportunity / Affirmative Action Institution.
